

Results of Hong Kong Marine Meteorological Services Survey 2019

A survey on the marine community's opinions towards the meteorological services provided by the Hong Kong Observatory has been conducted every year since 1989.

In 2019, the survey was carried out from September to November. 97% of the responses rated the marine weather forecasts issued by the Hong Kong Observatory as "accurate" or "very accurate" while all responses regarded the tropical cyclone warnings for shipping issued by the Hong Kong Observatory as "accurate" or "highly accurate".

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all shipmasters for sparing their time to complete the questionnaire and expressing their views on our services.